Parish History

Kings Langley began and acquired its name in Plantagenet times when Edward I's wife, Eleanor of Castille, bought the "Langelei", the long meadow or clearing, next to the River Gade.

A royal hunting park was created, and a palace built at the top of Langley Hill:

Drawing by Richard Boustred

Edward III used the palace to govern England during the Black Death in 1349, and his fifth son, Edmund de Langley, the first Duke of York, is now buried in a tomb in All Saints Church.

The palace was largely destroyed by fire in 1431, but parts of the neighbouring priory remain.

The Parish Council

The Parish Council was created in 1894, and is the closest form of local government.

Hertfordshire County Council and Dacorum Borough Council may provide the local government services, but the Parish Council provides the extras, which are summarised on the following pages, and help make the parish an extra special place.

Annual Events

Each year, the council runs or supports the following events in the parish.

Beating the Bounds

A public walk around the parish boundary on Rogation Sunday (5th after Easter).

Best Kept Gardens Competition

There are several categories, e.g. Best Newcomer, and you don't have to have a big garden. The awards are presented at a presentation evening in the autumn.

Carnival - The council helps to run the village carnival on the Common in late June.

Community Award - This annual award is presented to a nominated person to acknowledge an exceptional and valuable contribution to the community in the parish of Kings Langley in the last year or over many years.

Christmas Festival

An event run jointly with Community Action Dacorum. The High Street is temporarily closed off to traffic for the arrival of Father Christmas, the switching on of the council's Christmas Lights, stalls and other entertainment, followed by fireworks in the park.

Twinning with Achiet-le-Grand

A lifelong resident of the parish, Christopher Cox, was awarded the Victoria Cross for valour near the village of Achiet-le-Grand, France in March 1917. In recognition, in 2009, Achiet-le-Grand and Kings Langley entered into a "Friendship" (Twinning) agreement.

Our Environment

The council owns and maintains:

- the village centre entrance signs
- the village garden (adj. All Saints' Church)
- the public flowerbeds and troughs
- the brick-built bus stop shelters, and
- most of the park benches

And the council's Village Warden also does extra litter-picking and grounds maintenance etc. which can be done by a single person.

The Pound was completely rebuilt over the Easter weekend in 2018 after the previous structure fell into disrepair. The word 'pound' or 'pund' comes from medieval times meaning pen or enclosure. Their purpose was to impound stray animals until the owners claimed their animals and paid a fine to the pound keeper. Farmland was not enclosed until the 17th to 19th centuries. The Pound was originally sited behind cottages in the High Street and was moved to Common Lane in 1835.
